What is happening in Florida?

----- WENDY PHUNG

Imagine being locked in your house with a rapid storm outside your window.

This is the experience of many Floridians currently under the reign of hurricane Ian. Hurricane Ian has left 2.6 million people without power and under a huge flood. The first casualty was an old man who was cleaning his pool. His body was found in a canal after his wife called for a search. The rescue of these flood bound citizens is continuing with these people being plucked from their roofs.

Hurricane Ian had weakened into a tropical storm but is predicted to continue through Florida and out into the Atlantic. However, the results of this storm has left Floridians flooded and sometimes stranded.
